TENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FROM OUR PASTOR:

Conscience is another area for us to look at and reflect upon in our 'summer school' review this June. I share the following from Msgr. Charles Pope in an article he recently wrote.

"The Church exists to teach the truth and to dispel error. Our work is not to affirm modern or popular notions. It is no to reflect the views of the age. Our work is to proclaim the teachings of our head and founder, Jesus Christ. Jesus himself said, "those whom I love I rebuke and discipline. So be earnest and repent" (Rev. 3:19). We all need constant teaching and ongoing correction so that we can be transformed by the renewing of our minds (see Romans 12:2). The way that the Church respects those with consciences that lead them astray is by teaching them with love and patience.

Too many people today have reduced the conscience to a mere "sense" of what is right or wrong. Even worse, some believe that whatever they think or feel is directed by their conscience. Thus, a person might say, "My conscience tells me that what the Scriptures or the Church solemnly teaches on 'X' is wrong or is outdated and no longer applies." In doing so, he acts as if his conscience is an authority that can overrule even Divine Law.

It is not a law unto itself. Conscience does not establish law. The role of conscience is to apply what is taught by God, through natural law, Revelation and the Church, to particular situations. The aim of conscience cannot be to resist such law, but rather, to receive and apply it.

Definition: Conscience is an act of judgment of our practical reason whereby we assess the moral quality of a practical act by inference from general principles. Because laws and principle are most often of a general nature, it is important that they be applied to each act by the practical reason; this what conscience does (see Catechism of the Catholic Church, 1778).

While it is taught that a man may follow his conscience even if it be erroneous, this does not make the conclusions of an erroneous conscience true or worthy of respect. Jesus himself once said, "the time is coming when anyone who kills you will think they are offering a service to God (John 16:2). This is a truly horrifying case of an erroneous conscience. In speaking of it, Jesus does not affirm that it is good. It is certainly evil to kill the innocent and to martyr Christians. And even if their erroneous conscience may lessen their culpability, Jesus does not leave them free of any role in their deformed consciences. Thus, he add, "they will do these things because they have not known the Father or me" (John 16:3).

Conscience is true or false as it agrees with or falls short of natural law and human law that is just and in conformity with Divine Law. The goal for acts of conscience must always be that they are rooted in what is good and true."

May we take some time and consider the ways that we mature in our practical judgments of conscience. Let us use the many tools the Church offers us to come to know the Good, the True, and the Beautiful in our lives.
