ELEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FROM OUR PASTOR:

Continuing with the idea of “summer school review” in areas of the faith, I would like to go back to prayer. We had an experience of prayer in difficult moments from Jennifer Hubbard who lost her daughter in the shooting at Sandy Hook School. That was very personal. Lets try another angle looking at two forms of prayer that we do but may not think about at the time.

The following comes from Fr. Albert Bruecken, O.S.B.. “Isn’t prayer just the lifting of the mind and heart to God? Does it matter how one prays as long as one’s prayer is sincere? What is devotional prayer? Devotional prayer is a more subjective, personal kind of prayer. Particular practices of devotional prayer rise and disappear according to the historical situations of the times. They are adaptable to individual needs and wants. St. John Paul II described them as ‘an opportunity for the faithful to encounter the living Christ’ (Rosarium Virginis Mariae, no.43) It is meant to help sustain each of us on our spiritual journey, especially in our quest to pray constantly under the advice of St. Paul. (1Thes. 5:17) It is also something we can do on our own which allows us to individually hear God telling us that He loves us, and at the same time allows us to show our love for God. Practices like the Rosary, Eucharistic adoration, Lectio Divina, novenas, veneration of Mary and the saints, praying in tongues or being slain in the Spirit, and a wide multitude of other practices are included in this category.

What is liturgical prayer? Liturgical prayer, on the other hand, is the official public worship of God by the Church as the Body of Christ. It tends to be more formal, with prescribed structure, rubrics, and words, and usually led by an ordained minister. The Eucharist and the Liturgy of the Hours are the most common examples of this sort of prayer. The documents of Vatican II speak of the Eucharist as the “summit toward which the activity of the Church is directed” and “the font from which all her power flow,” (Sacrosanctum Concilium, no. 10) Liturgical prayer is meant to unite the various parts of the Body of Christ into one body, with Christ, our High Priest, at the head, represented by the deacon, priest, or bishop, leading us together to the Father. Because of the diversity of the members of the Body of Christ, liturgical prayer is more structured, with texts chosen from the rich history, scripture, and tradition of the Church and focuses on the Paschal Mystery. Lifting our Hearts and Minds to God. Liturgical prayer and devotional prayer are meant to work together to lift our minds and hearts to God. Devotional prayer allows us to develop our personal relationship with the Lord according to the way that best suits each of us. That is why the type of devotional prayer one chooses is more subjective; even the manner of praying the same prayer may vary from one person to the next. Having established a relationship with the Lord in our devotional prayer life, we bring that to liturgical prayer, where it is united with the others in the Church and incorporated into the Paschal Mystery.” The last part is what we are to bring to Mass and place on the altar; which was the sacrifices of our prayer from the past week. So if Mass is boring, perhaps we forgot to bring something to make the sacrifice come alive for us and all we have prayed for in the past week.

Father John
