TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

FROM OUR PASTOR:

School starts this week. The summer is truly over. So starting a new schedule or routine for many of our students who may have been able to sleep in or stay up late, starts now.

Change for many the last number of days because of all the rain. Perhaps having to take another route since the road was closed or having to clean things up because of the water in the house or basement. Just a reminder that we are not in charge or can control everything. Let's pray for and be willing to help all those impacted by the flood waters.

Considering going back to school, we are never too old to learn. Also it is never beyond us to offer an example to others. Many watch us and see what we do for many reasons. Perhaps we can give them a good reason to watch us because we could offer them a good example.

From Teaching the Way of Love, a great communication tool from the diocese, I suggest the following that you and your family could try so as to give those around you a good example.

The following can be areas of prayer and/or action you can do or do as a family.

- That parents will live according to the Ten Commandments, especially at home.
- That families will always call to mind how they have been blessed by God.
- That families will foster an attitude of gratitude and contentment to combat the materialism of our culture.
- That parents will have the strength to selfless generosity in a culture of selfishness.
- That Families will joyfully work to put God at the center of all they do.
- That our materialistic culture will learn through our example to value relationships and faith.
- That our children will find support inside the family and out to practice self-control and balance.
- That families exercise "thanksgiving" on a regular basis.
- That parents intervene when they hear their child talking too much about what they wished they had.
- That you may serve others as a family, allowing your children to recognize that others have less than they have.

If you want to check out more great ideas or find some advice as a parent that will build up the faith in our young people, go to www.twl4parents.com.

Life always gives a chance to learn, ready or not!

Father John

FORMED....Pick of the Week

We are living in a relativistic culture. Society tends to say that there is no absolute right or wrong for everyone. Some here may agree with that statement, while others may accept that there is a moral standard, but struggle to convincingly explain that moral conviction to others. Many of us likely shy away from the topic of morality out of fear of offending others or being labelled "intolerant." We are all affected daily by this relativistic worldview. This week's FORMED Pick of the Week is an engaging video series that answers the question: How do we talk about morality in a relativistic world? This week, go to formed.org and watch "Who Am I To Judge?".
